Subject	Guide on Producing Simplified Listing Documents Relating to Equity Securities for New Applications
Listing Rules and Regulations	Main Board Rules 2.03(2) and 2.13 GEM Rules 2.06(2) and 14.26
Author	IPO Vetting Transactions Team

Important note: This letter does not override the Listing Rules and is not a substitute for advice from qualified professional advisers. If there is any conflict or inconsistency between this letter and the Listing Rules, the Listing Rules prevail. You may consult the Listing Department on a confidential basis for an interpretation of the Listing Rules or this letter.

1. Introduction

General principle of the Listing Rules

- 1.1 One of the general principles of the Listing Rules is that potential investors are given sufficient information to enable them to make a properly informed assessment of an applicant (Main Board Rule 2.03(2), GEM Rule 2.06(2)).
- 1.2 A key Listing Rule requirement in support of this general principle is that information contained in a listing document must be clearly presented and in plain language format (Main Board Rule 2.13, GEM Rule 14.26).

Concerns over the length and complexity of Hong Kong listing documents

- 1.3 The SFC and the Exchange have previously published guidance to help applicants and their advisers produce listing documents that are clearly presented and in plain language. For example, the SFC published a “How to create a clear prospectus” guide in January 1998, and the Exchange has published a number of guidance letters on disclosure in listing documents, mostly included under the title “Simplification Series” from 2011 to 2014.
- 1.4 Nevertheless, the Exchange is concerned that many Hong Kong listing documents may not be fulfilling the general principle referred to in paragraph 1.1 above. Hong Kong listing documents are often overly long and complex. Together with the use of legalistic and technical jargon, Hong Kong listing documents have become harder to understand (e.g. poor explanation of business model) and important information may be buried inside the document rather than highlighted upfront. This concern is heightened in Hong Kong due to high levels of participation by retail investors in IPOs.

Purpose of publishing this Guide

1.5 The Exchange believes a new guide which consolidates and updates guidance on this topic will be helpful to applicants and their advisers. A new guide also reinforces the importance which the Exchange attaches to listing documents being clear, concise and in plain language.

1.6 The objectives of this Guide include:-

- assisting applicants and their advisers to produce listing documents which fulfil the general principle referred to in paragraph 1.1 above;
- providing guidance on what information the Exchange typically expects to be included in different sections of a listing document; and
- improving investors' ability to find and understand information in listing documents necessary to make properly informed assessments of applicants.

1.7 This Guide does not:-

- prescribe a "one size fits all" formula in preparing listing documents. For example, there may be applicants in industries/ sectors which require specific disclosure; and
- identify a checklist of information which must or must not be disclosed, in order for applicants to satisfy listing document content requirements under applicable laws and regulations, the Listing Rules and guidance letters, including Main Board Rules 9.03(3) and 11.07, GEM Rules 12.09 and 14.08(7), and Guidance Letter HKEX-GL56-13.

1.8 Similar to previous guidance letters, the Exchange expects applicants to follow the guidance herein when preparing listing documents.

2. Structure of this Guide

2.1 This Guide is divided into three parts.

- (a) Section 3 sets out guidance on producing a clear and concise listing document;
- (b) Section 4 and Appendix 1 set out a consolidated and updated version of a number of the Exchange's previous guidance letters on disclosure in listing documents, mostly included under the title "Simplification Series"; and (Updated in May 2016)

- (c) Section 5 sets out online hyperlinks to: (i) sample “Summary of the Constitution and Laws of Place of Incorporation” sections of listing documents of applicants incorporated in Bermuda, the Cayman Islands and the PRC; and (ii) the corresponding sample constitutional documents for applicants.

3. Guidance on producing a clear and concise listing document

3.1 General drafting principles

Taking into account publicly available guides on plain language drafting, including guides prepared by securities regulators and stock exchanges in other jurisdictions on preparing simplified prospectuses and listing documents as well as the Exchange’s own experiences, the Exchange has identified the following four drafting principles.

(a) Does each piece of information in the listing document need to be disclosed?

Consider why each piece of information is disclosed in the listing document.

- Is the information relevant and material i.e. its omission or misstatement would affect an investor in making an informed assessment about the applicant?
- Is it included to comply with a specific requirement under applicable laws and regulations or the Listing Rules?
- Is the information specific to the business of the applicant?
- Has the information been disclosed elsewhere in the listing document?

Unnecessary information is often included in a listing document simply because other published listing documents contained it. Consider the business of the applicant and critically assess whether each piece of information needs to be disclosed. Do not include immaterial information that obscures information that is important to the investors.

(b) Simplify the language

Disclosure should read like part of an everyday conversation.

- Use everyday language as if you were speaking directly to the reader.
- Use short sentences. Instead of one long sentence to describe a complex issue, break up the description into separate, shorter sentences.

- Replace long phrases with fewer and simpler words that mean the same thing.

Listing documents are often read by retail investors with little or no technical knowledge in the applicant's business or industry. Consider whether such a person can understand the disclosure.

(c) Avoid using defined terms or technical jargon

Defined terms make disclosure harder to understand because the reader has to stop mid-sentence to check their meaning.

- Avoid using a defined term or a technical jargon when the disclosure can be explained using plain language.
- When defined terms or technical jargon are necessary, use terms with plain language meaning which most closely explain their defined meaning. Avoid creating new defined terms which are unique to the listing document.
- Use a defined term consistently throughout the listing document.
- Ensure that all defined terms are set out in the "Definitions" or "Glossary" sections. This helps readers find the meaning to the defined terms.

Defined terms, legal, financial and other technical jargon, by definition, are not plain language. Do not use these terms unless they improve the readability of the disclosure.

(d) Simplify the layout

Organise disclosure in the listing document in a logical manner.

- Use a simple design and layout, and choose a font and type size that is easy to read. The same font and type size should be used throughout the listing document (including in the "Summary and Highlights" section). Avoid using all upper-case characters.
- Start with the big picture; describe the applicant's business generally before describing detailed features of the business. Group related information together.
- Present information in a meaningful way to emphasise matters that are of most interests to investors.
- Use descriptive headers and sub-headers to break up information into small digestible parts. If possible, number headers and sub-headers for easy cross reference.

- Use tables and bullets to help present information. For example, figures such as revenue contribution by business segment during the track record period may be more easily presented in a table than in words.

Even when using plain language, many applicants have complex businesses which require extensive disclosure. Organising disclosure in each section in a logical manner becomes key to preparing a useful listing document.

3.2 Practical suggestions for the drafting process

Set out below are some practical suggestions for the drafting process.

- Use a lead writer/ editor: A lead writer/ editor should be responsible for the quality of the listing document as a whole. He is not expected to write the entire document but he should review and, where necessary, amend sections produced by other participants in the IPO process. This helps the listing document to have a logical structure and consistent language usage.
- Avoid copying disclosure: Disclosure from other listing documents (e.g. risk factors) are often not material or not relevant to an applicant or its securities. It is acceptable to take ideas from other listing documents, but you should separately draft disclosure that is specific to an applicant's business.
- Tabulate financial information: Much of the financial information disclosed in a listing document can be presented in table form; it makes comparison between different periods in the track record period easier.
- Cross reference: Applicants should cross reference other relevant sections in the listing documents to provide more details on the subject matter and to avoid duplication. For example, the Accountants' Report contains a lot of useful information, such as year-to-year revenue and expense breakdowns, and critical accounting policies which impact an applicant's financial results. Cross reference the relevant page of the Accountants' Report instead of repeating the information in other parts of the listing document.
- Summaries of material agreements: Summarise material agreements by describing key provisions in plain language. These documents are available to investors for inspection so there is no need to include the full text of key provisions in the listing document.
- Summaries of Listing Rules, legislation or other regulations: Describe in plain language how the Listing Rules, legislation or other regulations apply to an applicant. Investors who want to read the actual provisions of the Listing Rules, legislation or other regulations can look them up directly.

- Avoid marketing language: Avoid statements that are included solely for “marketing” purposes. Listing documents should not be used as a marketing document. The Exchange will require removal of statements which do not give a fair, unbiased, balanced and factually supported view of an applicant’s business. For example, the Listing Committee had previously requested an applicant to remove a reference that it was the “largest domestic fashion sportswear brand by revenue” on the basis the fashion sportswear market was itself a relatively small segment of the retail clothing market and a hybrid of the sportswear market. The statement may give a misleading impression on the size of the applicant.
- Step back and review: After a draft listing document is prepared, step back and review it. Consider whether any information can be removed, summarised, or structured in a way to emphasise more on matters important to investors.

4. Guidance on disclosure in specific sections of a listing document

4.1 Set out in Appendix 1 is a consolidation of a number of the Exchange’s previous guidance letters on disclosure in listing documents, mostly included under the title “Simplification Series”, updated with recent examples. It provides specific guidance on what information the Exchange expects in each section of a listing document. The guidance has been divided and ordered into sections as they typically appear in a listing document, as follows:

- A. “Summary and Highlights” section (superseded HKEX-GL27-12)
- B. “Risk Factors” section (superseded HKEX-GL54-13)
- C. “Industry Overview” section (superseded HKEX-GL48-13)
- D. “History and Development” section (superseded HKEX-GL49-13)
- E. “Business” section (superseded HKEX-GL-50-13)
- F. “Financial Information” or “Management discussion and analysis on the historical financial information (MD&A)” section (superseded HKEX-GL59-13)
- G. “Applicable laws and Regulations” section (superseded HKEX-GL72-14)
- H. “Directors, Supervisors and Senior Management” section (superseded HKEX-GL62-13)
- I. “Use of Proceeds” section (superseded HKEX-GL33-12)
- J. Application Forms and “How to Apply for Hong Kong Offer Shares” section (superseded HKEX-GL64-13). (Updated in May 2016)

- 4.2 As a result of the consolidation in Appendix 1, the above standalone guidance letters have been withdrawn (see Frequently Asked Questions 003-2016). (Updated in May 2016)
- 4.3 Set out in Appendix 2 is a list of certain other guidance letters published by the Exchange on disclosure in listing documents. These remain in full force and effect.
- 5. Sample “Summary of the Constitution and Laws of Place of Incorporation” sections of listing documents of applicants incorporated in Bermuda, the Cayman Islands and the PRC
- 5.1 The Exchange noted that the “Summary of the Constitution and Laws of Place of Incorporation” section of many published listing documents on average were lengthy. At the same time, the Exchange recognized that this section should be capable of being the same or very similar for most applicants from the same jurisdiction.
- 5.2 As a result, subject to paragraph 5.4 below, the Exchange has prepared specimen versions of such section for applicants incorporated in the Recognised Jurisdictions of Bermuda, the Cayman Islands and the PRC for reference, and the corresponding standard articles of association or bye-laws which applicants incorporated in the Recognised Jurisdictions considering using.
- 5.3 Electronic versions of these specimen sections and standard articles of association or bye-laws are available for use by applicants when preparing their listing documents. These versions can be accessed at:
http://www.hkex.com.hk/eng/rulesreg/listrules/listsptop/guidepsld/psld_index.htm
- 5.4 It should be noted that:
- (a) the specimen sections are provided by way of example only, and are accurate solely as at the date of issue; and
 - (b) the standard articles of association or bye-laws of companies incorporated in each of Bermuda, the Cayman Islands and the PRC are also provided by way of example only, and were based on typical articles of association of companies incorporated in those jurisdictions and listed on the Exchange as at the date of issue.

They may not be updated to reflect changes in law after the date of issue. We will revise these specimen sections, standard articles of association or bye-laws to reflect changes in this information only when notified of any changes.

The contents of the specimen sections, standard articles of association or bye-laws should be reviewed, and amended as necessary, before being incorporated in a listing document or adopted by applicants. In all cases, applicants should seek the advice of suitably qualified legal advisers before doing so. If there is any conflict or inconsistency between these specimen sections, standard articles of association or bye-laws and the requirements of the Listing Rules, the Listing Rules shall prevail. Use of these specimen sections, standard articles of association or bye-laws does not absolve applicants and/ or their directors from the obligation to make their own judgment concerning the contents of their listing documents.

6. Suspension of vetting (Added in August 2017)

6.1 With the aim of promoting more succinct listing documents focused on material information, the Exchange had adopted a recommended 10 page limit for each of the “Summary and Highlights” (see section A below) section in January 2012 and “Industry Overview” (see section C below) section in January 2013. To further promote more succinct listing documents, the Exchange has extended its guidance in this respect and adopted a recommended 20 page limit for each of the “History and Development” (see section D below) and “Applicable Laws and Regulations” (see section G below) sections.

6.2 As stated in paragraph 1.2 above, the Listing Rules require information contained in a listing document to be clearly presented and in plain language format (Main Board Rule 2.13, GEM Rule 14.26). This guidance letter is published to assist applicants and their advisers to produce listing documents in compliance with this requirement. To encourage compliance with this guidance letter, the Exchange may exercise its discretion to suspend vetting if:

- the listing document does not comply with any of the recommended page limits for the “Summary and Highlights”, “Industry Overview”, “History and Development” and “Applicable Laws and Regulations” sections; or
- information in the “Summary and Highlights” section (i) is almost entirely copied-and-pasted from other sections; or (ii) does not contain explanation of material fluctuation of key financial data.

6.3 Listing applicants will be requested to redraft relevant sections of the listing document to fully comply with this guidance letter before the Exchange will continue to vet. Suspension of vetting is not a return or rejection of the application, so there is no need to upload the revised Application Proof onto the website of the Exchange and the initial listing fee will not be forfeited.

B. “Risk Factors” section

1. Listing Rules

- Main Board Rules 2.03(2), 2.13(2), 11.07 and 19A.42
- GEM Rules 2.06(2), 14.08(7), 14.22 and 17.56(2), and Paragraph 67 of Part A of Appendix 1

2. Related publications

- None

3. General guidance

- 3.1 The “Risk Factors” section should include all the material risks associated with investing in an applicant and its securities. It should explain why these risks are material from investors’ perspective.

Risks should be relevant to listing applicants

- 3.2 The section should only present risks that are relevant to the particular applicant.

- 3.3 Each risk factor should be described in context so that investors can understand the nature of, or circumstances giving rise to, the risk or uncertainty as it affects the applicant, its operations and securities, or the offering.

- 3.4 If standardised language is used in a risk factor, it is important to ensure that the particular circumstances of the applicant do not require modification of that language.

Make quantitative disclosure and focus on the risks, but not the background information

- 3.5 The section should focus on explaining the nature and extent of the risks. If possible and meaningful, this should be in the form of quantitative disclosure of the likely impact of the risks to allow investors to assess the magnitude and impact on the applicants’ business operations and financial position. If the likely impact cannot be ascertained, disclose the maximum quantitative impact, if possible.

- 3.6 The risk factor should avoid unnecessary factual background and should only provide enough detail to place the risk in context. More detailed discussion of the background information may be included in other parts of the listing document and only cross-referenced in the risk factors.

Identify risks individually, but avoid repetition and overlapping

- 3.7 Each risk factor should focus on disclosing a single, specific principal risk and should avoid bundling together disclosure on multiple risks.

- 3.8 Avoid multiple risk factors that address the same principal risk.

Risks are matters that applicants are unable to mitigate adequately and that would have significant effects on the applicants if they occur

- 3.9 Risk factor disclosure should relate to risks that applicants are unable to mitigate adequately. Where an applicant is capable of mitigating the risk, do not include a risk factor just because the applicant may not carry out the mitigation adequately. For example, it is not appropriate to include an applicant's possible failure to comply with legal requirements as a risk factor because applicants are expected to be law-abiding and rule compliant, unless there is a genuine and specific reason that gives rise to this uncertainty to comply.
- 3.10 Risk factor disclosure should not be confined to risks that are considered to be reasonably likely to occur. If the occurrence of a particular risk would have a significant effect on the applicant, the applicant should disclose that particular risk even if it has a low probability of occurring.
- 3.11 For example, an applicant relied on three suppliers which accounted for over 95% of its total cost of sales and services. However, the applicant did not believe this gave rise to material risks because of its long-standing relationships with the suppliers, as well as long-term supply agreements that had been entered into. Nevertheless, as the disruption to the applicant would be significant if it lost any one of these suppliers, a risk factor was included with respect to this risk.

Appropriate headings and sub-headings

- 3.12 Related risk factor disclosure should be grouped together, adopting appropriate and meaningful headings and sub-headings. As a guide, headings may include "risks relating to the applicant", "risks relating to the applicant's business", "risks relating to the applicant's industry" and "other relevant risks" (e.g. "any social, economic or political risks relating to countries where the applicant has substantial operations", and "risks that are specific to the securities"), etc.
- 3.13 The sub-headings should not be too vague and generic, and should succinctly outline or reflect the risk that follows in the text as a result of certain facts/uncertainties about the applicant. This means the headings need to say what the risk is and not merely disclose the facts or circumstances that give rise to the existence of the risk. For example, "Reliance on major customers" merely states a fact, whereas "Reliance on our top five customers which accounted for 75% of our revenue" describes the risk.

Order from the most to least material

- 3.14 As a general principle, applicants should seek to set out risk factors in an order that reflects their relative significance. Within each category of risk factors, applicants should similarly seek to present the risk factors in an order from the most to least material. However, ordering will always require the making of subjective judgments as to the magnitude of each risk (both in terms of likelihood of occurrence and in terms of consequences if it does). Accordingly it is the sole responsibility of the applicant to determine the appropriate ordering having due regard to this general principle.

No mitigating facts

- 3.15 Mitigating facts should not be included in the description of a risk factor as they may divert investors' attention from the magnitude and impact of the risks. Mitigating factors may however be included in other sections of the listing document to give a better assessment of the risk and how the applicant intends to mitigate it. Cross-referencing the risk factors to relevant disclosure in other sections of the listing document may be appropriate.

Consistent disclosure

- 3.16 The risks included within the "Risk Factors" section should be consistent with the information in other sections of the listing document. A disclosure discussed elsewhere in the listing document that clearly suggests a significant risk or uncertainty to the applicant should be included in the "Risk Factors" section.

Exclude outdated risk factors

- 3.17 The section should exclude risk factors which are outdated and no longer applicable. For example, a new law, when promulgated, may create some uncertainties and risks during the initial implementation stage. However, uncertainties may no longer exist after years of implementation. In this context, a risk factor on uncertainties of the law is unlikely to be relevant and so should not be included in the section.

Avoid disclaimer statements that lack specificity

- 3.18 The purpose of the risk factor disclosure is to provide meaningful cautionary statements. The same result cannot be achieved by using disclaimers that merely say that there may be undisclosed risks, for example, "the section is not complete and there may be risks that the applicant does not consider material at the date of listing document may become material in future" and "there may be risks that we have not yet identified at present". Accordingly the use of statements of this nature should be avoided.

C. “Industry Overview” section

1. Listing Rules

- Main Board Rules 2.13(2) and 11.07
- GEM Rules 14.08 (7) and 17.56(2)

2. Related publications

- HKEX-GL8-09 – Statistics and data quoted in prospectuses

3. General guidance

3.1 Whilst not required, applicants usually include an “Industry Overview” section in their listing documents.

3.2 The “Industry Overview” section normally contains, among other things, statistics and data extracted from commissioned research reports and/ or official public documents. The sources and reliability of these statistics and data are not always disclosed prominently and at times this section may discuss only general information which is not relevant to an applicant’s business and industry, and is out-of-date. We recommend that this section provides investors with up-to-date and concise information specific to an applicant’s business and industry, and only to the extent it affects an applicant’s business model and the investor’s investment decision.

No extraneous information and be succinct

3.3 The section should be as short as possible. It should not include general information which is irrelevant or unlikely to affect an applicant’s business, or simply disclose the information without explaining the linkage to an applicant. Extraneous information makes the section unnecessarily lengthy and distracts investors’ attention. This section should generally be no more than 10 pages, although ~~this is only a rule of thumb and~~ its actual length will depend on the nature and complexity of each case.

3.4 For example:

- It is neither relevant nor material information to investors for an applicant engaged in sales of consumer products in PRC, USA and Europe to provide pages of global economic trend data, or gross domestic product or consumer price index data (past and forecast) in these countries. Such data, if presented, must specifically relate to the applicant's business, as opposed to any company which sells to these markets.
- An applicant engaged in property development with 95% of its projects in the PRC and 5% in Hong Kong having no immediate plan to expand in the Hong Kong market should not include a lengthy discussion of the prospects and trends in the Hong Kong property market.

- An applicant engaged in manufacturing with sales focused in European countries and purchases from PRC suppliers may face significant foreign currency risk. Merely including information on the historical exchange rate of Euro and RMB in this section is not helpful to investors. Relevant information on the trend of the fluctuation of Euro and RMB and how it affected and/ or will affect an applicant's sales, cost structure and profit margin should also be provided.

Source and reliability of information

- 3.5 This section should disclose the source of information and whether any research report was commissioned by an applicant or its connected persons/ associates and/ or the sponsor to enable investors to assess the independence and objectivity of the information. The following additional disclosure should be included in the section: (1) the fees paid for commissioned research reports; (2) the business, background and credentials of the research house; (3) the parameters and assumptions used when these data or statistics (including forward-looking data) were collected and analysed; and (4) the basis upon which these data or statistics are considered reliable.

Up-to-date market information

- 3.6 An applicant should ensure that the most up-to-date market information is disclosed. This may include disclosure on the industry maturity and size, and key customers and suppliers and how they are relevant to an applicant's business. As a guide, all historical market information in this section should be for time periods consistent with the applicant's track record period, so that investors can compare the market information with an applicant's financial information in the listing document. If this information is not available, this should be stated.
- 3.7 An applicant's directors should confirm in this section, after making reasonable enquiries, that there is no adverse change in the market information since the date of the commissioned research report which may qualify, contradict or have an impact on the information in the section. For example, in one case an applicant claimed to be one of the leading top 10 producers of household appliances in the PRC. The industry data contained in the commissioned report covered only up to 2011, whereas the track record period extended to the financial year 2012, and there was no supporting data afterwards and as at the latest practicable date. In this case, a directors' confirmation was required.

Fair and balanced presentation of market share and ranking

- 3.8 Where an applicant decides to include in the listing document information on its market share and/ or ranking, the information should be presented in a fair and balanced way against up-to-date market information and not be overly favourable or misleading.
- 3.9 The disclosure is misleading if an applicant describes itself as a market leader in a particular segment without providing in proper context that such segment is a small subset of the overall industry. For example, it is not appropriate if an applicant describes itself as a market leader in the sportswear segment in certain provinces in the PRC with 70% market share without disclosing the fact that its market share in the overall apparel industry in the PRC is only 5%. Accordingly, this section should disclose information on the applicant's market share and ranking in the whole industry with the support of appropriate independent market or operational data, or that the applicant's leading position only applies to a distinct segment of the whole industry and provide the share of such segment within the industry.

Competitive landscape and competitive advantages

- 3.10 This section should include information on the competitive landscape of an applicant and its major products. For example, the identities and details of the key market players and their respective market share, nature of competition, barriers of entry to the markets, future opportunities, threats and/ or challenges to the markets. It should also include the market shares of an applicant's major products.
- 3.11 This section should also substantiate an applicant's competitive advantages both quantitatively and qualitatively with the support of appropriate independent market or operational data. For example, an applicant with a competitive advantage of economies of scale should explain in the section the scale of its operation when compared with its peers quantitatively, and how its scale provides competitive advantage quantitatively and qualitatively.

Historical price trends of raw materials and final products

- 3.12 This section should include, preferably in the form of charts and tables with the same scale and in legible size, the historical prices of an applicant's major raw materials and final products (especially for applicants engaged in the commodities business), and commentary on any material fluctuations. It is also helpful to explain how any changes to its major raw material prices affected the selling prices of its final products historically.

3. General guidance

- 3.1 The “Business” section should properly explain the material components of an applicant’s business model in a simple and easy to understand manner, and include information on keys areas e.g. market and competition, suppliers, customers, production, products and services, etc.
- 3.2 This section should also include the applicant’s risk management policies and procedures and explain how these policies and procedures mitigate risks identified in the “Risk Factors” section:
- description of the existing risk management policies and procedures;
 - corporate governance measures (including board oversight and risk management committees with details of qualification and experiences on those personnel in charge); and
 - on-going measures to monitor the effectiveness of these policies, procedures and measures.
- 3.3 Whilst applicants may include competitive strengths in this section, care should be taken to give a fair, unbiased, balanced and factually supported view of an applicant’s business.
- 3.4 Disclosure should be specific rather than generic, and should tie to other sections of a listing document (e.g. explanations should be given if receivables and payables turnover days in the “Financial Information” section do not match the credit policy in the “Business” section, or if extended credit policy is given to specific customers).

3.5 Cross-referencing to relevant disclosure in other sections of the listing documents to avoid duplication of information if necessary. Information should not be duplicated except in the “Summary” section where information to be highlighted needs to be summarized.

3.6 Where possible, present information using tables, charts and diagrams to ensure clear, concise and precise disclosure.

- HKEX-GL38-12 – Guidance on the Latest Practicable Date and the latest date for Liquidity Disclosure in listing documents

3. General guidance

- 3.1 Listing documents must include the MD&A because the financial statements alone do not provide all the information that investors need to make investment decisions. The financial statements mainly disclose the financial effects of past events and do not provide non-financial measures of performance or a discussion of future prospects and plans. The MD&A is to provide discussion and analysis of an applicant’s past performance and main trends and factors that are likely to affect its performance, position and prospects in order to enable investors to see the applicant through the eyes of management.
- 3.2 To meet the above objectives, applicants are expected to disclose not only past events or information responsive to specific requirements of the Listing Rules, but also an analysis that explains management’s view of the implications to an applicant’s future and the significance of that information.

General Principles

- 3.3 The following are the general principles which should be observed in preparing the MD&A:
- (a) there should be a balanced discussion of all major businesses and segments (both existing and planned) including both positive and negative circumstances of an applicant. Generic discussions that do not provide insight into an applicant’s past performance and prospects should be excluded;
 - (b) Cross-referencing to relevant disclosure in other sections of the listing documents to avoid duplication of information if necessary. For example, disclosure on forward looking statements and matters affecting an applicant's future performance can be cross-referenced to the "Future Plans and Prospects" section, and disclosure on basis of presentation, critical accounting policies and estimates, and risk analysis can be cross-referenced to the Accountants' Report; and

- (c) presenting information using tables, charts and diagrams is recommended to ensure clear, concise and precise disclosure.

Guidance and Principles on Specific Disclosure

- 3.4 Below are some guidance and principles on specific disclosure generally found in the MD&A.

Key Factors Affecting the Results of Operations

- 3.5 Highlight key events or factors that management considers most important in driving the changes in an applicant's operating results, financial position and cash flows, which may include the following information where appropriate, and not a detailed description or repeating information from the "Business" section:

- economic and regulatory factors that affect the industry and market in which an applicant operates. For example, in the case of a PRC banking business, market conditions such as the interest rate environment and the unique regulatory challenges of operating a banking business in the PRC; and
- significant relationships, opportunities, challenges and specific risks that are likely to affect an applicant's performance, financial position, liquidity and cash flow in the future.

Critical Accounting Policies and Estimates

- 3.6 Disclose an applicant's critical accounting policies, accounting estimates and assumptions made in applying such policies. It should supplement, and not duplicate, the description of accounting policies disclosed in the notes to the financial statements which at times are too generic. For example:

- in relation to revenue recognition policies, instead of stating that revenue is recognized upon transfer of risks and title, an applicant should clearly state at which point of time revenue is recognized (e.g., upon delivery of goods or issue of invoice to customers) and whether there is any delay due to time required for inspection and acceptance by the customers; and
- where the relevant accounting standards allow different treatments but only one treatment can be adopted in a consistent manner, disclose the treatment adopted by the applicant. State which treatment has been adopted by the applicant and do not disclose all permissible treatments.

- 3.7 For critical accounting estimates and assumptions, an applicant should disclose:

- the procedures and methods used by management in making accounting estimates;
- how accurate the estimates (or underlying assumptions) have been in the past by comparing with actual results;
- how the estimates (or underlying assumptions) have changed in the past; and
- whether the estimates (or underlying assumptions) are likely to change in the future and the reasons for this.

Review of Historical Results, Financial Position and Cash Flows (“Financial Information”)

3.8 Disclosure should provide clear descriptions of an applicant’s financial and non-financial performance, including factors which explain or provide insights into material fluctuations in the applicant’s operations and performance (including by reference to key financial ratios) during the track record period, and any other significant items. Management should also state its view on whether historical results are indicative of future performance and management’s assessment of an applicant’s prospects.

Examples of disclosure we do not consider meaningful include:

- explaining the changes in operating cash flows by reciting the cash flow movements in narrative form without providing the underlying causes for the changes; and
- explaining that the decrease in accounts receivables turnover days is due to the increase in sales without providing the reasons/ explanation of the events causing the increase in sales.

3.9 Where there have been significant changes in the applicant’s industry such as material changes to commodities prices, political unrest or where an applicant’s operations have been affected by recent natural disasters, appropriate commentary should be made in the MD&A on the extent of the actual and potential impact on an applicant’s operations, financial position and performance and cash flows.

3.10 Explanations of management’s perspective of an applicant’s direction, targets and prospects, in addition to explanations of past events can help investors develop expectations about an applicant from its past performance and current state. Such explanations should be based on qualitative and quantitative information, and be neutral.

3.11 Additional disclosure on the following items should be made in the MD&A:

- (a) details of any related party loans, advances, guarantees and/ or pledges of securities to/ from an applicant including the terms, and the intentions of these arrangements after listing;
- (b) details of any material related party transactions during the track record period, the directors' views on whether they were conducted on an arm's length basis. If the related party transactions would distort an applicant's track record results or make the historical results not reflective of its future performance, adjusted results may be included to present the applicant's track record results without such transactions; (Updated in May 2016)
- (c) applicable tax rate which an applicant is subject to, and details of any preferential tax treatments, tax benefits or special tax arrangements (and their expiry dates). (Note: If expiry is within one year, a risk factor in the "Risk Factors" section is recommended);
- (d) details of any disputes/ unresolved tax issues with the relevant tax authorities, including any provisions made or reasons for no provisions having been made; and
- (e) any post balance sheet events (including share subdivisions, share consolidations, and declaration and payment of dividends). The sponsor and reporting accountants must ensure the information in a listing document is complete and accurate by confirming that proper adjustments and disclosure, if necessary, have been made in the listing document and the Accountants' Report, including relevant post-adjustments financial indicators such as earnings per share.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

3.12 Provide a clear picture of an applicant's ability to generate cash and to meet known, or reasonably likely, future cash requirements, which usually include the following:

- historical information regarding sources of cash and significant expenditures;
- an evaluation of the amounts and certainty of cash flows;
- the existence and timing of capital expenditures and commitments;
- expected changes in the mix and relative cost of capital resources;
- indications of which balance sheet, income or cash flow items should be considered in assessing liquidity;
- prospective information regarding sources of and needs for capital; and
- material covenants relating to outstanding debts, guarantees or other contingent obligations, and whether the covenants have been breached during the track record period (and any related consequences).

G. “Applicable Laws and Regulations” section

1. Listing Rules

- Main Board Rules 2.13(2), 11.07, 13.90 and 19.10(2) & (3), and Paragraph 7 of Part A of Appendix 1
- GEM Rules 14.08 (7), 17.56(2), 17.102 and 24.09(2) & (3), and Paragraph 7 of Part A of Appendix 1

2. Related publications

- Joint Policy Statement (27 September 2013) regarding the listing of overseas companies

3. General guidance

- 3.1 The “Applicable Laws and Regulations” section should describe the rules and regulations that are material to applicant’s current and/ or future business. This section should generally be no more than 20 pages, although its actual length will depend on the nature and complexity of each case. (Updated in August 2017)

Avoid use of legalistic language

- 3.2 The “Applicable Laws and Regulations” section is no different from other sections of the listing documents, and should be prepared in a manner that conveys a regulatory overview that is easy to understand by investors who are not lawyers.

Key laws and regulations of the relevant jurisdictions

- 3.3 This section should include up-to-date laws and regulations that are specific and have a material impact on an applicant’s business (e.g. rules and regulations governing the applicant’s key licences for operation). Disclosure should explain clearly how each law or regulation affects an applicant’s business instead of abstract summaries of such law and regulation. An applicant should avoid boilerplate disclosure of laws and regulations that do not materially impact its business (e.g., laws that apply to a business segment which represented, and is expected to represent, a relatively small percentage of an applicant’s revenue and profits).
- 3.4 Where an applicant has or plans to have material businesses, in terms of its operations and sales, in a number of jurisdictions, an appropriate description of the laws and regulations that have a material impact on the applicant’s businesses in each such jurisdiction should be made (e.g. protective tariffs or trade restrictions imposed on the applicant’s goods imported into the customer’s country; intellectual property protection in relation to the products sold by the applicant in the customer’s country and the applicant’s liabilities for breaches).

Key changes in the laws and regulations

- 3.5 Future changes in laws and regulations that are expected to have a material impact on the applicant's business should be included under this section (e.g. the impact of increase in stamp duty on a property development company; or a more stringent financial requirement for obtaining a licence). There should be cross references to the "Business" and the "Risk Factors" sections to describe the impact of changes on the applicant, and its plans and procedures implemented or to be implemented to deal with such changes.
- 3.6 Changes in laws and regulations during or prior to the track record period do not need to be disclosed unless (1) such changes continue to have a material impact on the applicant's business, or (2) such changes affect the interpretation of the applicant's financial performance during the track record period, in which case cross references should be included to other sections of the listing document (e.g. the "Business" section or "Financial Information" section).

Risk of non-compliance

- 3.7 Where there is a risk that the applicant's business may commit a material breach of applicable law or regulation, the steps that the applicant has taken and plans to take to ensure compliance should be disclosed, cross references should be included to other sections of the listing document (e.g. "Risk Factors" section or the "Business" section), and it may be appropriate to include the opinion of a legal adviser as to the materiality of the risk, the risk of enforcement, and the maximum liability of the applicant.

Highly regulated industries

- 3.8 For applicants engaged in a highly regulated industry (e.g. banking, insurance or gambling), the "Applicable Laws and Regulations" section should not only focus on local statutory laws governing the industry (e.g. banking laws, laws governing insurance companies, gambling laws), but also other internationally implemented industry specific rules and regulations (e.g. anti-money laundering).

Laws of the issuer's jurisdiction of incorporation

- 3.9 Reference is made to the Joint Policy Statement (27 September 2013) regarding the listing of overseas companies.
- 3.10 The disclosure of regulatory provisions (see Main Board Rules 19.10(2) and (3) and specific disclosure items in paragraphs 63-66 of the Joint Policy Statement) in relation to an applicant's jurisdiction of incorporation should be set out in a section of the listing document separate from the "Applicable Laws and Regulations" section.
- 3.11 Where an applicant experiences legal process inefficacy in its jurisdiction of incorporation (e.g. considerable backlog in the local courts giving rise to significant delays in enforcing legal remedies; difficulty of enforcing of a foreign judgment against the applicant due to complexity over recognition of overseas judgements; procedural impediments in the judicial systems) which would affect the operation of its business and how shareholders (including depositary receipt holders) would exercise their rights against the applicant or among themselves in a timely manner, the applicant should highlight its observations on the difficulty of law enforcement in this section. There should be cross references to the “Business” and the “Risk Factor” sections to describe the impact, and its plans implemented or to be implemented (if any) to mitigate the impact on the applicant and its shareholders.

3. General guidance

Meaningful Breakdown of the Use of Proceeds

- 3.1 This section should include a detailed breakdown of the use of proceeds. For example, where the net proceeds will be allocated to each of an applicant’s proposed expansion plans, a detailed breakdown of the use of proceeds for each component of the expansion plan (e.g. land acquisition, purchase of plant and equipment, increase in head-count, etc.) should be disclosed.

Proceeds for General Working Capital

- 3.2 Where an applicant has no current or specific plans for the proceeds, or a material portion of them (generally 10% or more), the “Use of Proceeds” section must include a statement to that effect and discuss the principal reasons for the offering.
- 3.3 The Exchange considers that references to “working capital” or “general corporate purposes” do not constitute current or specific plans for the proceeds unless a reasonably detailed explanation is given of how the working capital is to be applied or what the general corporate purposes are.
- 3.4 The Exchange will consider the facts of individual cases to determine whether the explanation for use of proceeds is acceptable. For example, the Exchange has previously decided as follows:

Case 1

The Exchange considered the allocation of all net proceeds as “working capital” by an applicant in the banking industry acceptable as it explained in detail in the listing document that the proceeds were to be used to increase its capital base to enable it to meet certain statutory capital requirements for business expansion.

Case 2

An applicant allocated 25% of its net proceeds as “working capital” including the expansion of sales force and operations team. The applicant was requested to include a clear explanation in the listing document of why it was necessary to allocate 25% of the proceeds to working capital, and a more detailed explanation on other intended allocations, e.g. for unidentified acquisitions and increase in inventory.

Proceeds for Acquisition of Properties

- 3.5 Where the proceeds will be used to acquire properties from any connected persons or their associates, the “Use of Proceeds” section must disclose the basis for determining the acquisition costs.⁵

Proceeds for Acquisition of Businesses

- 3.6 Where the proceeds will be used to finance acquisitions of businesses, the “Use of Proceeds” section must disclose the identities of the businesses acquired or to be acquired or, if not yet identified, the nature and a brief description of the types of businesses to be sought, the acquisition strategy, and the status of any related negotiations.
- 3.7 Where pro forma financial information reflecting acquisitions is not required under Main Board Rule 4.28 (GEM Rule 7.27) or the Companies (Winding Up and Miscellaneous Provisions) Ordinance, an applicant is still required to disclose the terms of any proposed acquisition, the identities of the parties and the business nature of the acquisition target.

Proceeds for Discharge of Indebtedness

- 3.8 Where the proceeds will be used to discharge debt, the listing document must disclose the interest rate and maturity of the debt. The listing document should also describe how the proceeds from the borrowing were used.

Other related disclosure in Listing Document

- 3.9 Details of proposed capital expenditures would normally be included in different sections of a listing document. For example, if the expenditures are for a programme of construction or equipment purchases, the “Financial Information” section of the listing document should discuss matters such as liquidity and proposed capital expenditures.
- 3.10 If material additional funding is necessary for the specified purposes for which the issue proceeds are to be used, the amounts needed and funding source for each specified purpose should be disclosed in the “Use of Proceeds” or the “Business” section of the listing document.

Amount and Allocation of the Proceeds

3.11 The “Use of Proceeds” section should set out the amount of net proceeds to be received by an applicant if the offer price is fixed at low-end, mid-point and high-end of the offer price range with and without exercising the over-allotment option, if applicable, and the breakdown of the use of proceeds under different circumstances where the amount to be raised is variable.

3.12 With respect to GEM applicants:

- paragraph 15(2) of Part A of Appendix 1 to the GEM Rules requires the listing document to disclose whether or not, and if so to what extent, the issue has been underwritten and, if not fully underwritten, the minimum amount of capital, if any, which an applicant must raise for the issue to proceed;
- note 8 to Part A of Appendix 1 to the GEM Rules states that where the listing document refers to an amount proposed to be raised in excess of the minimum amount indicated under paragraph 15(2) of Part A of Appendix 1 to the GEM Rules, the listing document must explain the impact to an applicant and its statement of business objectives for raising such excess amount. In this regard, a statement that the excess will represent working capital shall not be adequate unless a reasonably detailed explanation is given as to how such working capital is to be applied; and
- paragraph 48 of Part A of Appendix 1 to the GEM Rules states that except for a listing by introduction, the listing document should disclose a detailed explanation of the intended use of the proceeds of the issue. The explanation must, so far as practicable, be given by reference to the content of an applicant’s statement of business objectives contained in the listing document (thereby providing an indication of the timing of the deployment of the proceeds).

Change of Use of Proceeds

3.13 An applicant may change the use of proceeds due to certain contingencies if these are discussed specifically and the alternatives are clearly described in the “Use of Proceeds” section. Any material change of use of proceeds is generally price sensitive and, if such information was not previously disclosed in the listing document, an applicant must make an announcement to notify investors of the change after listing.

Sale Shares

- 3.14 The listing document should disclose the number of sale shares in the offer, the amount of net proceeds received by selling shareholder from the sale shares and that the sale proceeds do not belong to the applicant.

3. Transfer of personal data

Personal data held by the Company and its Hong Kong Share Registrar relating to the securities holders will be kept confidential but the Company and its Hong Kong Share Registrar may, to the extent necessary for achieving any of the above purposes, disclose, obtain or transfer (whether within or outside Hong Kong) the personal data to, from or with any of the following:

- any persons or institutions with which the securities' holders have or propose to have dealings, such as their bankers, solicitors, accountants or stockbrokers etc.

4. Retention of personal data

The Company and its Hong Kong Share Registrar will keep the personal data of the applicants and holders of securities for as long as necessary to fulfil the purposes for which the personal data were collected. Personal data which is no longer required will be destroyed or dealt with in accordance with the Ordinance.
