- 11. Do you agree with our proposal to codify the waiver described in paragraph 71 of the Consultation Paper in respect of the experience and qualification of company secretary into the Rules?
  - □ Yes
  - No

Company secretary is one of role to comply with the securities regulation and maintain the governance of company. It should be acted by a qualified person with relevant qualification and experience to ensure the person has strong enough awareness of compliance and sense of governance to undertaking the obligation of this role, such as enable the independence non-executive director to provide advice to board. To determine the qualified person not only depend on the year of experience, but also the qualification. Obviously making the year of experience as single factor to appointment of company secretary is not wise and expose the company in compliance risk, although it provides more flexibility to company.

I think it is not a good idea to let the company find their wanted person with loosened retriction, because the company will propose a candidate who fits their specific needs, but who not always meet the standard of company secretary and the year experience is not reliable to be a single factor to determine the suitability of the company secretary role.
