No

You may provide reasons for your views.

It is not appropriate to grant waiver to a person who does not have academic or professional qualifications ("Unqualified Person") as a named company secretary of a listed company in any circumstances.

Most of the directors of new listed companies do not familiar with the Listing Rules. They are highly rely on a professional and experienced company secretary to monitor the transactions of the listed group in order to comply with Listing Rules. Especially the directors with PRC background, most of them do not think it is essential to fully comply with the Listing Rules.

HKEX claim that the waiver is on the condition that the proposed company secretary must be assisted by a person who possesses the qualifications or experience ("Qualified Person"). However, there is no way for HKEX to check whether the Qualified Person really get involved in monitoring the transactions of the company. If the Qualified Person exists in name only, HKEX is just letting an Unqualified Person to perform the role of company secretary, non-compliance with Listing Rules may exist which would harm the interest of the public shareholders. In addition, it will give a wrong signal to the public that it is not necessary for a listed company to appoint a Qualified Person as a company secretary as HKEX may grant waiver to the Unqualified Person. This will seriously shrink the company secretary industry.

HKEX has worked hard to enhance the corporate governance level of HK listed companies in the past decade. Granting of waiver would downgrade the corporate governance level in Hong Kong and harm the interest of public shareholders. Hence, HKEX should not garnt any waiver to the Unqualified Person as a named company secretary of a listed company in any circumstances.
