We encourage you to read all of the following questions before responding.

1.	We propose to amend the existing threshold for imposing a PII Statement and to make it clear that a PII Statement can be made whether or not an individual continues in office at the time of the PII Statement. Do you agree?
	□ No
	If your answer to the above question is "no", please provide reasons for your views.
	We have no objection to the changes which are proposed in relation to PII Statements or to the introduction and consequences of director unsuitability statements. We would request the Exchange to maintain a public database of persons subject to such statements. This would enable listed issuers and applicants for listing to check these persons, particularly as their status can depend on conditions being met.
2.	We propose to extend the scope of a PII Statement to include directors and senio management of the relevant listed issuer and any of its subsidiaries. Do you agree?
	□ No
	If your answer to the above question is "no", please provide reasons for your views.

3.	or senior management member of the named listed issuer after a PII Statement has been made against him. Do you agree?
	□ No
	If your answer to the above question is "no", please provide reasons for your views.
4.	We propose that, after a PII Statement with follow-on actions has been made agains an individual, the named listed issuer must include a reference to the PII Statement in all its announcements and corporate communications unless and until that individual is no longer its director or senior management member. Do you agree?
	□ No
	If your answer to the above question is "no", please provide reasons for your views.
5.	We propose to extend the current express scope of disclosure in listing applicants listing documents and listed issuers' annual reports in respect of their directors and members of senior management (current and/or proposed, as the case may be) by requiring provision of full particulars of any public sanctions made against those individuals. Do you agree?
	□ No

to the somet to liab shareh We do genera comparules I shareh the lis shareh shareh	o not agree with liability being imposed for omissions. This would be contrageneral legal principle that a person can only be liable for omitting to do hing if the person has a positive duty to do that thing. We object in particular bility being imposed on substantial shareholders. As a matter of general law, nolders do not owe duties to the companies of which they are shareholders. On not think it right that the listing rules should impose such a duty when the fall law does not. A substantial but not controlling shareholder of a listed any is unlikely in any event to be able do anything about a breach of the listing to the listed company. It would also be particularly unfair for one substantial holder to be liable for omitting to do something which would cure a breach of thing rules caused by another substantial shareholder. This might arise where holder caused a breach of the public float rules by becoming a substantial holder and another substantial shareholder (for perfectly understandable herical reasons) declined to cure the breach by selling shares.

the inverse book to record the as	have answered no because we are not sure whether the intention is to confer back door on the Exchange the power to require responses to enquiries estigations. We do not believe that a non-statutory body should have such power ticularly without the kind of safeguards which would be in place where a statuted by is granted such a power. If the intention is simply that, where a person choose espond to enquiries or investigations by the Exchange, the person should provin plete, accurate and up to date information, we would not object. We suggest the wording of the proposed new rule is revised so as to make this clear and also to refer appropriately to the proviso relating to professional advisers in 107 of the sulltation paper.
