Cash market – distribution of market trading by investor type

The Cash Market Transaction Survey 2013/14 covered trading in the HKEx securities market during the 12-month period from October 2013 to September 2014. The survey found that local investors regained dominance as the main contributors to total market turnover value in 2013/14, with a contribution of 45% in aggregate – 20% from local retail investors and 24% from institutional investors. Overseas investors contributed 39% of the total market turnover value, of which 34% came from institutions and 5% from individuals. The contribution from Exchange Participants' principal trading was 16%.

In 2013/14, retail online trading (i.e. trading where orders are entered directly by retail investors and channelled to the brokers via electronic media such as the Internet) contributed 38% of total retail turnover value or 9% of total market turnover value¹.

They were followed by US investors who contributed 26% to total overseas investor trading and 10% of total market turnover. For stock options, which accounted for 48% of the total market volume during the period, the majority of turnover was Exchange Participants' principal trading (71% of the product's total volume). Exchange Participants' principal trading was also the major contributor to trading in Hang Seng Index (HSI) Options, Mini-HSI options and H-shares Index (HHI) Options (56%, 56% and 49% respectively). For HSI Futures and HHI Futures, overseas institutional investors were the major contributors (51% and 58% respectively). ¹ Fieldwork of the survey was carried out during November and December 2014. Annotation of "Dec 2014" is made in tables and charts for easy reference only.

The typical Hong Kong retail stock investor is a 47 year-old person with tertiary or above education and a monthly personal income of about HK$22,500. The typical Hong Kong retail derivatives investor is a 42 year-old person with tertiary or above education and a monthly personal income of about HK$35,000.

The median number of stock transactions by stock investors during the 12 months preceding the interview was 6, the same level as in 2011 (including those with zero stock transactions in the period). The average value per stock transaction by stock investors had a median of about HK$50,000, up from HK$40,000 in 2011. The median implied total stock transaction value per stock investor⁷ during the 12-month period was about HK$300,000, up from HK$200,000 in 2011.

For warrant/CBBC investors, the median number of warrant/CBBC transactions in the 12-month period was 6 (including those with zero warrant/CBBC transactions in the period), down from 10 in 2011. The average transaction value had a median of HK$13,000, down from HK$20,000 in 2011. The median implied total warrant/CBBC transaction value per warrant/CBBC investor⁸ during the 12-month period was about HK$100,000, down from HK$300,000 in 2011.

The median number of derivatives transactions by derivatives investors during the 12-month period was 6, down from 12 in 2011. The average number of contracts per derivatives transaction by derivatives investors had a median of 2, the same level as in 2011. The median implied total contract volume per derivatives investor⁹ during the 12-month period was 48, up from 40 in 2011¹⁰.

The survey also found that 73% of stock traders¹¹ and 84% of derivatives traders¹² were online traders, i.e. investors who had traded the respective products on HKEx during the 12-month period, either always or sometimes, through electronic media such as the Internet.

Online stock traders tended to trade stocks more frequently than non-online stock traders — they had a median of 10 stock transactions in the 12-month period versus 6 for the non-online stock traders. Similarly, online derivatives traders tended to trade derivatives more frequently than non-online derivatives traders — a median of 10 derivatives transactions for online derivatives traders versus 4 transactions for non-online derivatives traders.

Proportions of stock/derivatives traders as online traders

Among the stock traders, 24% traded mainly through broker firms and 75% mainly through banks (about 1% used the service of broker firms and banks to a similar extent). Among the derivatives traders, 72% traded mainly through broker firms and 28% mainly through banks.
