We consider that sufficient protection is given to investors by the combination of existing levels of disclosure, the fact that the transactions have to be on normal commercial terms (defined in the relevant rule as "terms which a party could obtain if the transaction were on an arms length basis or terms no less favourable to the group than terms available to or from independent third parties") and the fact that this has to be confirmed annually by the INEDs. This is particularly the case where the provision of complex technical services makes it impracticable to give detailed pricing information. This applies for instance to aircraft maintenance services, the pricing of which is determined by reference to numerous complex technical factors, which vary by type of aircraft, component and technical standard involved and by type of service. Attempting to describe these factors in detail in disclosures to investors would result in particulars of excessive length and technicality which would not be of significant value to investors. circumstances, general references to the factors plus the annual normal commercial terms confirmations are sufficient and strike the right balance.

15. Do you consider that the current Rules governing CCTs and market practice in relation to CCTs that are conducted under framework agreements are appropriate? Do they provide sufficient safeguards to ensure that the transactions will be on normal commercial terms and will not be prejudicial to the interests of the issuers and its minority shareholders?

$\boxtimes$	Yes
	No

Please give reasons for your views.

Sufficient safeguards to ensure that continuing connected transactions will be on normal commercial terms are already provided by the annual review by the issuer's independent non-executive directors as required under current Rule 14A.37 (proposed Rule 14A.56) and by the fact that it is undertaken in the context of the required auditor's confirmation.

ó.	a sh the	you agree with the proposal to codify the waiver practice to allow an issuer to obtain areholders' mandate (or a mandate from the board if the transactions is exempt from shareholder approval requirement) in lieu of a framework agreement with the nected person?
	$\boxtimes$	Yes
		No
	If y	our answer is "No", please give reasons for your views.
		e take it, for the avoidance of doubt, that the use of shareholders' mandates will exclude the use of framework agreements.
' .	If yo	our answer to Question 16 is 'Yes':
	(a)	Do you agree to limit the mandate period to not more than 3 years?
		Yes
		No No
		If your answer is "No", please give reasons for your views.
		We see no reason why, in circumstances where this would be appropriate in the case of framework agreements (and the relevant confirmations are accordingly given), the mandate period should not exceed three years. For example, in capital intensive industries, the relevant period should cover the depreciation period of capital equipment.
