

Submitted via Qualtrics

Personal view

Question 1:

It is proposed that only the Applicable Securities, i.e. equities, REITs and equity warrants, will undergo minimum spread reduction. Do you agree?

Yes

If not, please provide reasons:

N/A

Question 2:

Do you agree with the Exchange's proposal to keep the minimum spreads of price bands below $0.5 and above $50 unchanged?

Yes

If not, please provide reasons:

N/A

Question 3:

Do you agree with the proposed selection of the price bands and/ or the proposed magnitude of reduction of minimum spreads for phase 1 (i.e. 50% to 60% reduction to stocks priced between $10 and $50 to achieve 4 to 10 bps for tick-to-price ratios)?

Yes

If not, please provide reasons:

N/A

Question 4:

Do you agree with the proposed selection of the price band and/ or the proposed magnitude of reduction of minimum spreads for phase 2 (i.e. 50% reduction to stocks priced between $0.5 and $10 to achieve 5 to 100 bps for tick-to-price ratios)?

Yes

If not, please provide reasons:

N/A

Question 5:

Continued use of a single spread table model with increasing minimum spreads along with price bands is proposed. Do you agree?

Yes

If not, please provide reasons:

N/A

Question 6:

Are you supportive of a multiple spread table model for the same type of securities?

No. Potential challenges as below:

If so, what eligibility criteria would you suggest?

N/A

If not, what challenges would you foresee in the implementation of a multiple spread table model? Please elaborate:

difficult to maintain especially for quantitative strategies. this is a theoretically beautiful idea that causes complexity and creates a higher barrier to entry for incumbents but also for casual and retail investors. i would encourage HKEX to keep it simple.

Question 7:

Do you agree to the inclusion of percentage-based requirement on top of the existing spread based requirements (i.e. either ± 24 spreads or 3.5% from the reference price, whichever is greater in percentage terms) in the quotation rules, including the relevant rules applicable in different trading sessions and transactions concluded on and outside of the Exchange's trading system?

Yes

If not, please provide reasons:

N/A

Question 8:

Are you aware of any infrastructure impact which may arise from the proposed minimum spread reduction, including but not limited to a 3 decimal place system set up for Exchange Traded Options trades?

Yes, details as follows

Please elaborate and explain the potential impact, including the possible lead time required for the additional infrastructure changes, if any.

some companies will have hard-coded a certain exponent into their infrastructure. but if you are not going beyond the current level of decimals then most participants will be OK

Question 9:

Do you agree with the proposed six-month lead time before effecting the new Spread Table for the Applicable Securities under phase 1?

No, recommended length and reasons as follows

If not, what would be a reasonable length and why?

do it asap

Question 10:

If the Exchange decides to implement phase 2 proposed after the review of phase 1, how much lead time would you need?

Others, please specify and give reasons for your view

Others, please specify and give reasons for your view:

12 months so that the market can assess and review the impact

Question 11:

Do you have any other comments regarding the proposed minimum spread reduction in the Hong Kong securities market?

no